Reblog: How the Open-Source Browser Continues to Balance Performance, UX, and Customizability

Alex Kontos

Founder

I'm happy to announce a collaboration with Tree Style Tab (TST), the popular Firefox add-on that brings a unique and powerful tab management interface to Firefox. This collaboration will bring the best of both worlds to the Waterfox browser, combining the power of TST's vertical sidebar with the speed and performance of Waterfox.

What's coming to Waterfox?

Inspired by the web browsers of yore, and something I've been wanting for quite a while are tab previews in the vertical sidebar. This will be a first for Waterfox, and I'm excited to see what you think.

The screenshot shows the Firefox browser's Privacy settings page. The 'Privacy' section is active, displaying options for Tracking Protection, Geographical Location, Suppress HTTP Referrer Header, WebRTC peer connection, History, Location Bar, and Container Tabs. A 'Cookies' dialog box is open in the foreground, showing a search bar with 'Search' entered. Below the search bar, it states 'The following cookies are stored on your computer.' and lists several cookies with their Name, Content, Host, Path, Send For, Expires, and Container. The 'Remove All' button is visible at the bottom of the dialog. The background settings page includes a sidebar with 'Add-ons Manager', 'Options', and 'about:preferences#privacy'. The bottom status bar shows the system clock as 05:43 PM on 01-03-2024.
